Thanksgiving Day To Be Celebrated At Sulphur Springs

Autumn Holidays to Find Large Numbers of Social Leaders at Noted Resort; Many Dinners Are Given

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE
WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, N. J., Nov. 15.—Interest is centering on Thanksgiving holidays at White Sulphur Springs. Many plans for Thanksgiving festivities have been formulated and there will be many parties here from New York, Philadelphia and Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo E. Woodhouse, of East Hampton, L. I., who always come in November for their autumn visit, will be here for over Thanksgiving. Mr. and Mrs. William H. Porter, who arrived the first of November, are here for a month's stay and will spend their Thanksgiving at the Greenbrier as they did last season. Robert Livingston Gerry comes from Newport, and Mrs. Peter Golet Gerry will be here from Washington. The Larz Andersons are prominent this week in the Washington set at the Greenbrier.

Society gathers on the veranda for tea and to watch the tennis matches. The courts are seen in the foreground to the right.

Prince of Wales Popular
The visit of royalty has added to the Greenbrier's prestige and had the visit of the Prince of Wales only been announced, it is safe to say that every available suite in the Greenbrier would have been immediately engaged for his visit, which starts today. The prince, of Wales' grandfather, the then prince, danced in the Old White ballroom with all of the Southern belles during his visit and his well-known democracy and good fellowship are quite equalled if not surpassed by the democratic ways and genial manner of the young prince.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Corey, of New York, who spent two days at the Greenbrier, returned to town this week with James Ford Johnson, Jr., who came down to join them. Mr. and Mrs. Corey entertained at several luncheon parties during their stay here, Thursday they gave a luncheon at the Casino for Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Whelan.

Mr. and Mrs. Christopher D. Smithers, of Glen Cove, are popular members of the New York set at the Greenbrier and have entertained for several friends at dinners in the Greenbrier. Before his return to New York, Edward R. Stettinius was guest of honor at a luncheon given by Mr. and Mrs. Smithers at the Casino.

James Cresson Parrish and his son, James C. Parrish, Jr., who is well known to Metropolitan golfing sets, are here from Southampton, L. I., for a visit of several weeks. Dr. J. Henry Lancashire and Miss Lila Lancashire have come from New York to spend November at the Greenbrier.

Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt is an interesting figure at the Greenbrier, where it is noted that he sport clothes are of the simplest in lines and texture.

Miss Isabel Corbier is registered at the Greenbrier from New York. Ernest R. Connett is here from New York, joining Mrs. Connett, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford T. Weekman and Mr. and Mrs. George N. B. Holderer, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Herbert, and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Bell are New York arrivals at the Greenbrier.

Dr. F. C. Carr, of the staff of Bellevue Hospital, is at the Greenbrier, with Mrs. Carr, Mrs. C. S. Christa, of London, and Mrs. Anne Stebbins, of Lockport, N. Y., have taken a suite at the Greenbrier.

The Countess of Stratford, who spent some time at the Greenbrier, has returned to New York. Mrs. James B. Weir, of Charleston, stopped here over Sunday en route for New York where he will meet Mrs. Weir, who has gone there for the National Horse Show which starts Monday. Mrs. Francis Key Pendleton, who spent several weeks here, returned to Iowa with Justice Pendleton.

Mrs. Potter Resting
Mrs. James Brown Potter, of Newport, is at the Greenbrier for November.

A wax chalk portrait was done of Mrs. Potter by Miss Virginia Hargrave, who painted a part of the portrait to White Sulphur Springs Memorial Library and for the benefit of the School for Homeless Boys at Covington, Va.

Colonel and Mrs. John Reid Kilpatrick, who passed a part of their honeymoon at the Greenbrier, have returned to New York.

Hunting Season Starts

For Lakewood Colonists

Resorters Take to Fields With Dogs and Guns; Thanksgiving To See Formal Affairs Begin

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE
LAKEWOOD, Nov. 15.—Hunting was added to the list of popular sports here this week when the season for quail and rabbit shooting opened Monday. P. S. P. Randolph and sons have been out every day this week and returned with well filled game bags. Members of the Lakewood House Gun Club have had a couple days of good sport on their game farm. Archibald J. McClure, A. J. Murphy, J. Luther Bright, F. P. Kimball and other members formed a party Thursday on the preserve.

The outstanding social feature of the week was the opening of the Laurel-in-the-Pines to-day. The opening of this hotel marks the opening of the Lakewood season in full swing. Being the center of social activity in the resort, the opening gives an impetus to social entertaining which begins in earnest with Thanksgiving Day.

Many New Arrivals
Among those who arrived to-day to spend the season at the Laurel-in-the-Pines was G. H. Pinckard and family, Combe Court, England. They are friends of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Gould. Others taking suites for the winter and arriving to-day included Mrs. Stone Benedict, Miss Benedict, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin L. Belt, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hartwell Hilman, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick E. Knapp, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Newton Lindley, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. E. M. Roland, Mr. and Mrs. Ives Washburn, Mr. and Mrs. Courtlandt P. Nixon, Mrs. B. H. Osborne, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. H. Campbell Nelles, Montreal; Dr. W. E. Stratton, Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. Mark Skinner Willing, of Chicago; Josef Hofmann, the pianist, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. James W. ## $304,000 Yale Deficit Is Met by Graduates

Former Students Take Up Loss Due to Decreased Number of Students During War

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 15.—Emergency gifts from graduates met a Yale deficit of $304,000 last year, according to the financial report for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1919, which will be issued by the university this week.

During that period Yale expended from its general income more than $100,000 for military and naval work, for which reimbursement by the government was not asked. In addition the university spent $275,000 on the Students Army Training Corps and the Yale Naval Unit.

The deficit, the report states, was due to smaller enrollment and other flexibilities of the war, but was met by contributions from more than 6,000 alumni, the individual subscriptions ranging from twenty-five cents to $75,000. The total net receipts of the alumni fund amounted to more than $640,000, of which $335,000 was added to the principal.

The total university endowment June 30, 1919, is given as $25,283,121. Ten years ago the total was $10,561,850. The report states that Yale's funds are invested $16,000,000 in stocks and bonds, $3,000,000 in mortgages, and $6,000,000 in New York and New Haven real estate. The average interest yield was 4.84 per cent. Its bond investment includes $1,000,000 in Liberty bonds.

Concerning the problem of increasing faculty salaries, the report says: "While it has seemed unwise to increase the salaries of other teachers at Yale until the adoption of the budget for 1919-1920, it is essential that the problem should be faced by the corporation at the earliest possible date with courage to make the increases necessary to continue to attract the best men to the work of teaching and to reward more adequately those who give to this the best that is in them."

Miami Is Preparing For A Record Season

Hotels Have Built Additions Expecting Unusual Crowds; Havana To Be an Oasis

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE
MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 15.—On the threshold of another winter season, Miami is welcoming an unusual number of visitors.

The returning tourist will note many changes here. Notable additions have been made to the Urney, Grady and San Carlos. The Hotel McAllister, on Biscayne Bay in the heart of Miami, is nearly completed, and a half dozen smaller hotels have been built. All told, the hotels should cater to two thousand more guests than were provided for last winter.

The Hotel Haley, the second largest hotel in Miami, opened for the winter November 1. Among the first guests to register at the Haley were the Rev. Harry S. Dinning, of Oyster Bay, L. I., and his wife, and the Rev. Harry S. Dinning, of Oyster Bay, L. I., and his wife, and the Rev. Harry S. Dinning, of Oyster Bay, L. I., and his wife.

The Miami Chamber of Commerce has procured Conway's band to furnish music for the winter season.

The Rev. Harry S. Dinning, of Oyster Bay, L. I., will spend the winter at Fort Lauderdale. Mr. and Mrs. Eugene H. Dinning, of New York, have opened their Key West residence on Simonton Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Everest George Sewall have returned to Miami after being the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Moore, of New York. Mrs. Henry J. Egger, and her daughter, Mrs. Agnes Egger Head, of New York, will be season visitors.

Autumn Season at Hot Springs Nears Its Half-Way Mark

Meeting of Hunt Club Big Success; Arrivals From New York Are Taxing Big Hotels to Full Capacity

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE
HOT SPRINGS, Va., Nov. 15.—November has reached its usual successful midpoint in this lovely Alleghany resort. Arrivals continue daily and a climax to the season is not expected before Thanksgiving.

Mr. and Mrs. Columbus O'Donnell arrived early in the week for their autumn visit in Hot Springs, and Dr. Carlos MacDonald is here to enjoy a two weeks' rest and mountain adventure. Mrs. Stephen Suddam Whit, with Mr. Stephen Whitney, came early in the week. Mr. and Mrs. Francis G. Landon also arrived. Mr. and Mrs. Cordelia W. Handy, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore S. Watson, who came for a flying visit, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Flint and Mr. and Mrs. David Ives Mackie are mid-November visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Laimbeer arrived from New York by automobile. Mrs. Gardiner Sherman is at the Homestead until December. Mr. and Mrs. John R. Drexel and W. Many at the Homestead
Mrs. Cornelia Tiers is here with Mr. Tiers. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stelle Brown, Mrs. Winthrop Burr and Mrs. E. R. Lancaster are arrivals from New York. Dr. and Mrs. Frank S. Ebbett, Jr., are at the Homestead from Brooklyn to remain six weeks. Miss Rosamond Roberts came on Wednesday for two weeks.

Governor-elect Edwards of New Jersey is at the Homestead with a party for two weeks' rest after his campaign. Another celebrity at the Homestead is Mr. James E. Cassidy, the noted New England prelate, whose work among the mill people in Fall River has earned him much distinction. Mrs. Charles Baldwin took a party of five to Valley View for luncheon Tuesday.

The hunt of the Fassenif Hunt Club came off with much excitement and at the breakfast which followed in the old hunting lodge were many of the colonists to enjoy old-time Virginia cooking in old-time Virginia surroundings.

Returns to New York
James J. Val Allen, who has been at the Homestead the last three weeks, left late in the week for New York. John L. Hobbie, the playwright, is at the Homestead.

Mrs. Lanier Dunn has closed her cottage and has returned to Richmond. Mrs. Dunn will shortly start for Germany to visit her son, Captain McKee Dunn, who is with the American Army of Occupation at Coblenz. Mrs. John J. McCook closed the Pillars yesterday and with Miss Harriet McCook started for New York. Mrs. Edgar H. Bright returned from New York Monday and has closed Brighton, starting yesterday with Mr. Bright for New Orleans. Mr. and Mrs. Matthew L. Akers have closed Highland House and started for Louisville.

U. S. Relief Saved Poland From Ruin, Says Worker Here

Dr. Boris Bogen, Back From Ten Months in Eastern Europe, Tells of Service Rendered by Americans

"There would be no Poland to-day but for America," said Dr. Boris Bogen yesterday. Dr. Bogen, as a representative of the Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, spent ten months in Eastern Europe, and found Poland, he said, a patchwork of destitute racial groups kept alive by American food. American relief, however, is enabling the people to establish order and build the foundations of a nation.

"I reached Poland in February," he said. "The country was in terrible distress. Thousands of children literally did not know what bread was. When the American relief administration informed the people food was on the way, they could not believe it. The first food overjoyed the populace. By the end of March conditions began to improve. The children, however, constituted a problem.

"Lieutenant Maurice Pate, of the American relief administration, and I got together one night in Warsaw and talked over the horror of seeing so many starving children around, without being able to do nearly enough to help them. After our conversation he called to his organization in the United States, and I called Felix M. Warburg, chairman of the Joint Distribution Committee. The result was that the Children's Relief Bureau was organized.

Saved Poland's Children
"It is perhaps the most wonderful organization that has grown out of the war, and the most far-reaching in its effects, since there is no doubt at all that it saved the children of the nation.

"Kitchens for the children are now found everywhere. In them a million children every day get one meal, about a third as much food as a child should have in the course of twenty-four hours. There are separate kitchens, of course, for the children of various nationalities, some for the Jewish youngsters, others for the non-Jewish, still others for the Lithuanians, and so on in several hundred cities and towns.

"The present plan is to continue the maintenance of the kitchens until next June. Fully 325,000 of 1,000,000 young-

Newton Expects to Uphold Validity of State Income Tax

Jerome L. Cheney Named to Argue Case for New York in Federal Court; Quick Decision Is Hoped For

ALBANY, Nov. 15.—With the intention of clearing up the question as to the constitutionality of the new resident sections of the new state income tax law in time for the next Legislature to act in an adverse decision. Attorney General Charles L. Newton designated his first deputy, Jerome L. Cheney, to argue the appeal from the Knox decision in the United States Supreme Court. Deputy James S. Y. Ives will assist him in the argument, which has been set for December 8.

The constitutionality of the law was attacked shortly after its enactment this year by the Yale & Towne Manufacturing Company and Congress cut, and United States District Court Judge Knox declared it unconstitutional in its application to non-residents.

The statute was assailed on the following grounds:

That it is beyond the sovereign power of the state to levy a general income tax upon non-residents.

That it discriminates against citizens of other states.

That in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment of the Federal Constitution it denies to non-residents the equal protection of the law.

That the act violates the commerce clause of the Federal Constitution.

That it impairs the obligation of contracts in violation of Section 1 of Article 10 of the Federal Constitution.

The income tax law permits residents to make certain deductions for losses and provides for exemptions up to $1,000 for resident single men and $2,000 for married men, with $200 for each dependent. Failure to make these concessions to non-residents was made the principal ground for the attack on the validity of the law.

Hit at "Tax Dodgers"
The state authorities in drafting the law attempted to cut off the escape of so-called "tax dodgers," who derive their income from sources within the state. These very provisions which New Jersey, Connecticut and other States. These very provisions which were designed to prevent tax evasion by the "tax dodgers" immediately made the object of legal attack.

After designating First Deputy Cheney to argue the case in the highest court, Attorney General Newton made this statement:

"I believe the income tax law, as finally passed by the Legislature, is constitutional. Because of this belief, I determined months ago to carry the case to the United States Supreme Court. It is my aim to clear up the question of its validity in time for the Legislature to act, in the event of a decision adverse to the state by the United States Supreme Court.

"Mr. Cheney has made an exhaustive study of the income tax law. He knows his subject, and I am confident, will succeed in establishing the constitutionality of the act in its present form."
